DEMANDS FOR MORE CENSORSHIP OF INTERNET AS NEWS BREAKS OF GLASS ELEVATOR WEBSITE

President Clinton took time off from his urgent negotiations with Sketchly's yesterday, to urge internet users or 'Netheads' in the West, not to visit the planned website for the British band Glass Elevator.	result of accidentally hearing the 'Group' , he gulped , " Yes! Yes! that's it! That's the whole reason that while listening to that damned band's 'tune' Ansaphone I was seized by an irresistible urge to play a small hand held wind instrument, leading to the cries of 'aaaaahhhh-monica' echoing around the sacred walls of the Whitehouse ".
When pressed as to whether his strong stance against the band had anything to do with his own symptoms suffered as a

We know where you live. We know you exist. As a special reward for existing, we are going to make the ultimate magical 'bonus Warhol' tribute, in offering each and every one of you the chance to star as part of the soon to be realised Glass Elevator Website. We intend to expose you for the sad smucko's that you may well be, by including pictures of you (the fans), on your very own webwall of fame! All that is required is that you have a face, or alternatively, another part of your body that you wish to exhibit, 5 minutes and an obliging pet or relative. Take a picture (remember kids, Polaroid's for those hard to reach regions) and send them to us, together with a brief note as to why you, of all people, should be showered by the shaft of fame that mounts The Great Glass Elevator. We'll let you know exactly when the Glass Elevator Website will go live, as soon as we can. During the meanwhile, your parents can emit their howls of derisive protest at the above, by e-mailing us at the address at the end of this program. (And remember to set your video-recorder, for the info-burst.)

It isn't very often that the music industry gets itself all worked up over a new band and it's even rarer for the cause of the commotion to be found in your very own backyard. (The great) Glass Elevator is three kent based musicians currently taking Record Company A&R departments by storm and their audiences by surprise. You may have been lucky enough to catch one of the low-key gigs played earlier this year, but now Glass Elevator wants everyone to know, just what all this fuss is about. Formed six months ago, Glass Elevator is Ed (Vocals/Guitar), Pete (Bass) and Paul (Drums) and should not be written off as just another 'Brit-Rock' three piece. Their music is more 'Art-Metal' than 'Art-pretence,' with glorious melodies vying for attention amongst kick-start dynamics and drop dead performance. The occasional use of additional instrumentalists live, complements their already huge sound and has even led to the comparison by one startled witness, as being like Nirvana with Frank Zappa's brass section! However, the band is under no illusions. They know that what they do is real and valid as an alternative to the crop of unimaginative, baby-faced sugar-pop and cynicism, currently dominating the UK music scene. They play real songs about real subjects with REAL emotion. Record Company showcases beckon in the first quarter of 1999 and the band will be warming up with a selection of local gigs. Go see (the great) Glass Elevator.

THINGS TO DO IN AN ELEVATOR.....

Blow your nose and offer to show others the contents of your tissue

Grimace painfully while smacking your forehead and muttering “Shut up dammit, all of you just shut UP”

Do Tai Chi exercises

Bet other passengers you can fit a penny up your nose

Frown and mutter “gotta go, gotta go”, then sigh and say “oops”

Burp and say “mmmmmmm tasty”

Stare at another passenger and shout “you’re one of them” and move to the far corner of the elevator

Draw a little chalk square on the floor and announce “this is my personal space”

Take a bite of sandwich and ask “wanna’ see wha’ in muh’ mouf?”

Announce in a demonic voice “I must find a more suitable host body”

Make race car noises when anyone gets on or off

Make explosion noises when anyone presses a button

Crack open your briefcase or purse and whilst peering inside ask “got enough air in there?”

This is an official apology to anyone who turned up at The Louis Armstrong gig on the 22nd October, only to find their Fast Moving Consumer Goods were playing the following Thursday. This is due to the good people of Dover having a damned jolly time with a quiz night instead. To be honest more people probably turned up and they probably feel much better having had their minds stimulated, rather than their basic animal urges tweaked, with the arrival of three hip grating pop music types. Anyway we are all very sorry. About everything. Ever. Honest.
